DANBURY NEWS

A JOURNAL OF TO-DAY

THE RECORD OF A YANKEE TOWN.

DANBURY, CONN., WEDNESDAY, APRIL 24, 1889.

ams are already getting low.

one arrest was made last night.

wise ones are already predicting a nd dry summer.

. Rockwell has been appointed aster at Mill Plain.

nk Haviland sold yesterday his allion, to parties in Bridgeport.

hospital board met last evening djourned till this evening, at eight k.

er & Strickland will move into new office on Railroad street, on lay next.

Knights of the Golden Eagle have ged for a banquet at their hall on ay night next.

payers should bear in mind that per cent. will be added on all unaxes after May 1st.

Danbury electric light hearing e the legislative committee will be ned up this afternoon.

. Barnum has give $11,000 to the ersalist church of Bridgeport, thus ly freeing it from debt.

arles W. Lockwood, the brakeman was injured at Branchville yesteris very comfortable to-day.

. L. C. Lancy, of Hartford, will at the organ recital at the First regational church, next Saturday.

nes E. Blaine, who has built a house urbin street, is altering the orignal and putting an extension piazza front.

An Old Man Assaulted.

Guiesseppe Loranice, the old Italian organ grinder, whose figure is familiar to many of our readers, was knocked down on White street last night, by some toughs who ran against him, evidently intending to rob him. They did not succeed in their purpose, however, and as the old man could not identify his assailants, no arrests were made.

A Request to Advertisers.

The New Haven News, speaking of the receipt of an advertisement from a builder written on a piece of pine board, remarks: "The proof reader spent half an hour boring a hole through it with his scissors that he might follow instructions to hang all "dead" copy on the hook. In order to save time and shears and to keep peace in the office, we would ask that our carpenter patrons bore holes in their advertisements before forwarding them."

Further Improvements at the Fair Grounds.

James H. Vradenburg has taken a contract from the Danbury Agricultural society to supply a still further accommodation on the Fair grounds in the way of horse barns. He is to build four with the following dimensions: 26x54 feet, with 9 feet posts. Each barn is to contain twelve stalls, and an alleyway confronting the stalls. Overhead will be rooms done off for the comfort of the hostlers. The buildings are to be situated near the cattle sheds.

Mr. Vradenburg will commence the work on the first day of May, that is, the erection of the buildings. The foundations are already being laid, and one is done and the second will be completed

City Court Judge.

Resolutions were passed in t of representatives yesterday, ing B. A. Hough judge, and Ho Scott assistant judge of the city Danbury.

Empty Cages.

W. D. Leahy, of 17 Elm street, quite a bird fancier, has lost re his canaries, larks, English robi ing birds, linets, Phebe birds, et disease visited them, and now t are all empty, and present th nity of the vacant chair.

The Hat Trade at Orang

The last advices from Oran Jersey, in regard to the recent in the hat trade is more favo fact, a victory for the hatters. five shops that wanted to redu bills, only Cummings & Matth stuck out against the men, and ing is that they too will resto old rates, and take back their o

Would Come Back.

Officer Warner found Charl lying in a sewer catch basi corner of Main and Elm streets ning, and Charles will be ke from the sewers for five days. going to jail he asked to be al let his father know of his whe Being informed that there wa to send, he kindly volunteere himself, promising to "co straight back, if he did go to ja

Entertainments.

Last night the Lilly Rowley