

WOMEN AT THE POLLS.

Full List of Those Who May Cast Their Ballots October 2.

The following is a complete list, up to date, of all the Hartford women who have been made voters at the town clerk's office. These women may cast their first ballot at the town election on Monday, October 2, for school officers. A separate ballot-box, for the women, will be provided at each voting station, and they may rest assured that they will be treated with the greatest courtesy.

Town Attorney Brocklesby, in his opinion on the question of registering women of foreign birth, holds that a woman of foreign birth who marries an American or who marries a foreigner who has been naturalized and has become an American citizen, is herself naturalized by the marriage and can be admitted as a voter. This applies to women from foreign countries with which this country has naturalization relations. That is from such countries as England, France, Germany and Italy, but not from China. A Chinese woman by marrying an American would not be allowed to become a voter, nor would a woman from any country whose male citizens are not allowed to become naturalized.

Mr. Brocklesby said that this was simply in the line of decisions given by the United States Supreme Court, but some decisions have gone so far as to claim that if a woman marries an alien and he afterwards becomes naturalized, that naturalizes his wife. Mr.

THE WOMEN VOTE

"Love Can Never Lose Its Own."

[From Whittier's Snow-Bound.]

What matter how the night behaved?
What matter how the north-wind raved?
Be it high, be it low, not all its snow
Could quench our hearth-fire's ruddy glow.
O Time and Change!—with halps gray
No was thy air's that winter day.
How strange it seems with so much gone
Of life and love to still live on!
Ah, brother, only I and thou
Are left of all that straggled now.
The dear home faces thereupon
That still freighted piled and shone.
Henceforward, happy as we will,
The voices of that hearth are still:
Look where we may, the wide world o'er,
Those lighted faces smile no more.
We tread the path their feet have worn,
We sit beneath their cornices torn.
We hear, like them, the hum of bees
And rustle of the bladed corn;
We turn the pages that they read,
Their written words we linger o'er,
But in the sun they cast no shade,
No voice is heard, no sign is made,
No step is on the conscious floor!
Yet Love will dream, and Faith will trust
(Since he who knows our need is just),
That somehow, somewhere, meet we must.
Alas for him who wakes
The stars shine through his eyes press trees!
Who, hopeless, leaves his dead away,
Nor looks to see the breaking day
Across the mournful marbles play!
Who hath not learned, in hours of faith,
The truth to flesh and sense unknown,
That Life is ever lord of Death,
And Love can never lose its own!

INTIMIDATION AT THE POLLS.

Brocklesby, however, did not accept that as in accordance with his views. In regard to women who arrive in this country before the age of 18, the naturalization of the father naturalizes his children, whether they are male or female, or if she has no father in this country, she is on the same footing as her brother. She will have to take out but one set of naturalization papers.

In regard to blind women, Mr. Brocklesby has reached no decision. There is a decision of one of the New York courts, not the highest court, which claims that reading upon raised letters is not reading under the general acceptance of the term, but is rather a mechanical action. He has written to New York for a copy of the decision, but further than that has reached no conclusion, but was inclined to the view taken by the New York court.
