

The Clio Staff

Dr. Wynn Gadkar-Wilcox (co-faculty advisor) is Professor of History and Non-Western Cultures and Coordinator of the MA Program in History at Western Connecticut State University. He spends most of his time singing corny barbershop music and spending time with his family (wife Sujata and daughters Ishika, 6, and Aksita, 2). He is currently completing a book on the modernist transformation of Vietnamese Confucianism in the nineteenth and twentieth centuries.

Dr. Marcy May (co-faculty advisor) is Co-Chair of the Department of History. Outside of the office, her existence is subject to the whims and caprices of two cats, Mileva and Homer, who determine the tenor of her days.

Steven Bates is a senior history major focusing on controversy in popular sports. On top of his classes, he is a student mentor with the Western Connection Program, and a member of the Dean's Circle with the Macricostas School of Arts and Sciences. During his free time, he bowls with family and friends and loves watching baseball from all around the globe.

Lauren Kerton is the current treasurer of Clio and a senior history major. In between classes she works in the History department as a Publicity Assistant and at AccessAbility Services. When not studying or working, Lauren enjoys watching Jenkins, her very stubborn beagle, crazy antics.

Stephen Kipp is an eighth-semester student double-majoring in History and Political Science. When he is not editing or writing papers, he can be found working in the Office of History & Non-Western Cultures and Social Sciences or stressing over graduate school possibilities.

Clio: WCSU History Journal

Kathryn Schwarz is a sophomore history major minoring in both political science and biology. In school, she is working towards a future in environmental law and conservation and hopes to attend law school after WCSU. Outside of school, she divides most of her time between her professional equestrian career and her fabulous family: husband Carl, daughter Evelyn, rascally dogs Rex and Violet, and rowdy horse, Vegas.

Nathanial Walker is the current President of Clio and a graduating History and Political Science double major. He also works in the joint office of History and Non-Western Cultures and Social Sciences, as well as the University Honors Program. Nathanial will be attending Brandeis University in the fall to begin his work as a PhD Candidate in the Department of Politics.
