

Contributors

Dana Fotheringham is a third year English and Philosophy major graduating in Spring, 2020. When she is not at work or haunting the WCSU library, you can find her with her nose stuck in a book, on a hike, or cuddling with her cat. She loves coffee, secondhand bookstores, and writing.

Brandon Lisi is a second-semester graduate student and aspiring professor, with a special interest in medieval European History. In April 2018, he visited Northern Switzerland, researching the origins of the Swiss Confederacy. He is currently working on a novel, The Habsburg King, which integrates this research with his passion for creative writing. His essay in this volume won the 2019 Herbert Janick Award for the best essay in history.

William Silvia is a senior specializing in Diversity Science (officially Psychology and Interdisciplinary Studies) with a minor in Creative Writing. He also works in the university's writing center and is an officer in the WCSU chapter of Psi Chi, the International Honor Society in Psychology. Outside of research, he enjoys exploring culture and diversity through science fiction and fantasy media.

